What Impacted and/or Disproportionally Impacted population does this project primarily serve?	2 Imp Low or moderate income HHs or populations
Brief description of structure and objectives of assistance program(s), including public health or negative economic impact experienced	The COVID-19 pandemic adversely affected low-to-moderate income individuals. Living along the gulf coast, the impact of two major hurricanes (Sally and Zeta) in 2020 worsen the homes of many residents who were unable to make costly repairs. The City of Mobile recognized there was a need within our community to combat financial distress due to the Pandemic and the hurricanes by providing relief in the form of roof repairs, so we enlisted several licensed contractors to repair or replace citizens'
Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	- In April, the City open accepted applications for the Roof program and received over 550 applications. The applications were prioritized by the need, income and households that had experienced a negative economic impact from the pandemic to determine the greatest need. Although the final rule gives the flexibility to assume low-to-moderate income individuals have been disproportionately affected, we go beyond that to ensure assistance is being provided to those most vulnerable. The aid provide

Project Description	To aide those in need through the negative economic impact of the pandemic by providing financial assistance to cover utilities to qualifying applicants.
What Impacted and/or Disproportionally Impacted population does this project primarily serve?	2 Imp Low or moderate income HHs or populations
Brief description of structure and objectives of assistance program(s), including public health or negative economic impact experienced	The COVID-19 pandemic adversely affected low-to-moderate income individuals. Living along the gulf coast, citizens experience prolonged summer months and excruciating cold winter months because of the subtropical climate. The fluctuations in temperature within a day's time causes cooling and heating expenses costly. The City of Mobile recognized there was a need within our community to combat financial distress due to the Pandemic by providing relief from payment of high utility expenses, so we
Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	Energy costs fall heaviest on those populations most disproportionately affected by the pandemic—people of color, low income individuals, and seniors. Often those populations can be found living in older, under insulated housing their residences tend to waste more energy. By aiding previously utility burdened households, they are able to reallocate resources to improve other areas of their lives. Project Description	To aide those in need through the negative economic impact of the pandemic by providing financial assistance for rent to qualifying applicants
What Impacted and/or Disproportionally Impacted population does this project primarily serve?	2 Imp Low or moderate income HHs or populations
Brief description of structure and objectives of assistance program(s), including public health or negative economic impact experienced	The COVID-19 pandemic adversely affected low-to-moderate income individuals. Prior to the Pandemic, many individuals were already facing housing instability and economic hardships, only to have their situations exacerbated by the Pandemic. To combat the challenges facing citizens of Mobile, the City of Mobile joined forces with three local non-profit organizations: Housing First, Inc. Legal Services Alabama, and Mobile Community Action, Inc.; to provide up to twelve months of rental assistance t
Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	Prior to providing rental assistance to households, an assessment is done to prove whether, and the extent to which, the household has experienced a negative economic impact from the pandemic.
